

Bare electrical wires crossed over all the windows in the premises. The wires were plugged into the mains electric and were live at the time of entry. LEB attended and tested the traps. All were conducting 240v.

All found address in Kent during a cannabis factory raid.

The broomstick leaning against the door is has a flex of cord attached. The cord is then connected to the door handle and plugged into the mains supply.

More window traps.

CS gas, the strong stuff....
